SIX extends MPS contract across its worldwide branches

The rollout will improve security and reduce print costs in 25 countries

SIX, a global financial services provider required a centralised and modern printing fleet to deliver a universal printing experience for its workforce. Deploying a HP Managed Print Services contract, including HP JetAdvantage Security Manager Software is reducing printing costs and securing sensitive financial data.

3.9k employees

€ 929m operating income

1.8m revenue

130 branches

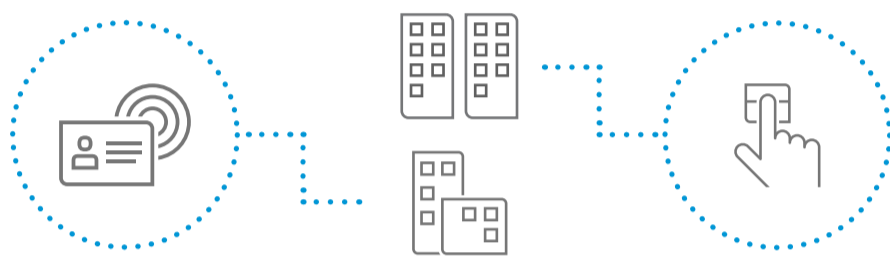

25 worldwide locations

20 years on Swiss stock exchange

Branch printers uncoordinated

Inconsistent cross-departmental printing

Authentication
was not the same across every branch

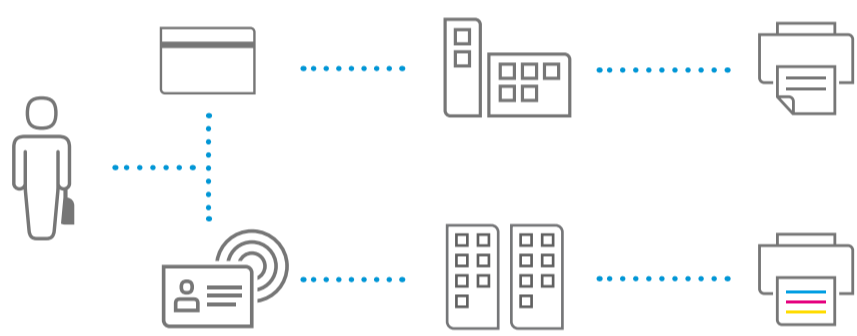

User interface

The user interface needed a homogenous design and simple functionality

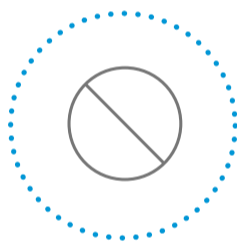

Access

Employees visiting other branches needed a specific badge to use printers

Need for gold standard print security rating

Security solution didn't comply with financial services requirements

Would also need to maintain efficient administrative system

Essential to present SIX as an advocate and practitioner of print security

"There had been different solutions at the sites abroad with respect to hardware, software and service which needed to be solved."
- Philipp Wälti, system engineer and project manager, SIX

"With the new HP MPS contract, the cost of printing has been reduced substantially. Due to the efficiency of the HP software for print management, a lot of time for administration work is saved and the reliability of the fleet is remarkably high. With this contract agreement, SIX can rely on a designated partner internationally."

- Philipp Wälti, system engineer and project manager, SIX
